Ohio Leads Christmas Day Highway Death Toll In U. S.

31 Persons Killed In State

All-Time Record In Nation Expected

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's holiday accident toll was the worst in the 48 states.

Since 6 p. m. Christmas Eve, 31 persons met their deaths in Ohio highway smashups.

Two separate head-on collisions, involving people bound for Christmas visiting, brought death to three persons in each crash. Three accidents involving double fatalities also were recorded.

In addition, there was one miscellaneous death, bringing the state's accident toll to 31.

In Cincinnati alone, there were 123 automobile accidents in which one person was killed and 20 injuries in Cincinnati between noon Wednesday and 6:30 a. m. today, Capt. Guy York of the Highway Safety Bureau reported.

The entire nation's Christmas holiday accident death toll has passed the 300 mark.

Auto mishaps killed 251 persons since 6 p. m. Wednesday local time. Twenty-three died in fires. Thirty-one other victims were killed in other type accidents.

WITH MORE than two and one half days of the extended 102-hour week still to come, it appeared that the all-time record of 535 traffic deaths for a four-day Christmas holiday in 1936 may be exceeded before midnight Sunday.

Last year's Christmas week end toll of all accidents was 789 deaths, 535 of them in traffic.

Highways in some parts of the Midwest and Northeast were icy, but clear, dry weather was reported over most of the country.

Some cities reported a record number of accidents. In Chicago, police said the 24 hours of Christmas Day were among the worst in the city's traffic history.

There were some 1,300 accidents. More than a dozen persons were killed, including four by hit-and-run drivers. Police blamed the heavy toll on drunken drivers and increased traffic because of the relatively mild weather.

The National Safety Council has estimated a traffic death toll of 590 for the 102-hour holiday week end period. Council President Ned H. Dearborn said if the present trend continues, however, "we are headed for an all time high for the holiday death toll."

The death toll by states, listing traffic, fire and miscellaneous:

Alabama 1 0 0; Arizona 4 0 0; Arkansas 3 0 1; California 15 2 0; Colorado 2 0 0; Connecticut 1 0 0; Illinois 16 1 1; Indiana 13 0 0; Iowa 3 1 2; Kansas 2 1 0; Kentucky 3 0 2; Louisiana 5 2 0; Maryland 12 0 0; Massachusetts 4 1 1; Michigan 13 0 3; Minnesota 5 0 0; Mississippi 2 0 0; Missouri 14 1 0; Nebraska 1 0 0; New Hampshire 2 0 1; New Jersey 2 3 2; New Mexico 3 0 0;

New York 23 2 2; North Carolina 4 0 5; Ohio 31 0 1; Oklahoma 9 0 0; Pennsylvania 16 1 1; South Carolina 7 0 1; South Dakota 1 0 0; Tennessee 6 1 3; Texas 7 1 1; Utah 1 0 0; Vermont 0 0 1; Virginia 11 4 0; Washington 4 0 0; West Virginia 3 0 0; Wisconsin 1 0 1.

Florist Becomes Maine Governor

AUGUSTA, Me. (AP)—A mild-mannered florist became Maine's 55th governor early today in a midnight ceremony beside a gaily-trimmed Christmas tree in his 112-year-old family home.

Burton M. Cross, a Republican, took the oath of office as acting governor. He will complete the term of Gov. Frederick G. Payne (R) who resigned to take his seat as Maine's junior U. S. senator when Congress convenes Jan. 3. Cross will be inaugurated Jan. 8 for a full two-year term.

West Diplomats In Moscow Urge Look At Stalin Views

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Stalin's statement that he favors diplomatic conversations on Korea is regarded by observers here as a preliminary offer to use his good offices in arriving at a Korean settlement.

Western diplomats in Moscow suggested today that a new Western approach, based on the Prime Minister's replies to questions by the New York Times, is now a possibility that must be seriously considered.

They said the next move probably would depend on U. S. President-elect Eisenhower's attitude on the question. Several factors were mentioned as indicating that the Stalin statement on Korea might rate serious consideration:

1. The truce talks in Korea, now long deadlocked, were a direct result of a Soviet government declaration that it would help bring about a Korean settlement. No other official offer has been made since that one in June, 1951.

2. Stalin's influence and authority are undoubtedly enormous in Communist China and North Korea as well as in the Soviet Union.

3. In another instance, intervention by Stalin in the explosive situation created by the Berlin blockade helped produce a settlement.

Western diplomats working within the Soviet Union also saw interesting possibilities in the Stalin statement that he would welcome U. S.-Russian talks leading to a possible meeting between himself and President-elect Eisenhower.

The Westerners pointed out, however, that this Stalin declaration failed to represent anything new. Also, many questions, including where such a meeting might be held, would have to be settled before it could ever take place.

On previous occasions, the Soviet premier has indicated his willingness to join the heads of the United States and Britain in direct talks.

But it always has been stressed that Stalin's health prevented him from taking any long journeys to America, for example.

Stalin's statement on world tensions monopolized all Moscow radio broadcasts Thursday.

Moscow's English-language transmissions beamed to the Western world repeated Stalin's replies to newspaper questions 48 times in the early morning alone. It also was the leading item on all the radio's home news bulletins.

The Red Chinese, too, got a full account. The statement was broadcast on the home news bulletins of Radio Peiping.

Power Lineman Survives Jolt

COLUMBUS (AP)—"Guess I was lucky," an electric company lineman said from his hospital bed today in relating how he survived the shock of 13,000 volts of electricity passing through his body.

Richard Sheets, 28, the lineman, suffered severe burns on five fingers of his right hand. He was repairing damage caused by an automobile accident, he said, and after mounting a 60-foot pole, grabbed what he thought was a "dead" wire. "I saw a big ball of fire and then passed out for a moment," he said.

Sabrejets Tangle With Commie Migs

SEOUL (AP)—Screaming U. S. Sabrejets brushed with Communist jet fighters in clear, cold skies over North Korea today while ground action continued light.

The Fifth Air Force said 12 Sabres skirmished with 14 Russian-built Mig jets, but made no damage claims.

'Respectable' Attorney Said Used As Brink's Gang Front

BOSTON (AP)—Unconfirmed reports said today the $1,219,000 loot from the Brink's robbery of Jan. 17, 1950, may have been placed in safe deposit boxes in various banks by a "respectable" Boston attorney acting as a front for the robbers.

The FBI refuses to comment on the report of how the loot was hidden after the daring evening robbery but three Boston newspapers report today that a lawyer was chosen by the gang to secret the cash.

The reports said the gang's plan called for the lawyer to hire some 40 safe deposit boxes in banks throughout the country where the money could be placed by him without suspicion.

The newspapers added that the lawyer's identity has been known to investigators for some time and said that he has been under surveillance for many months and is expected to be brought in for questioning in a few days.

Panel Urging Tougher Tax Collection Plan

Probing Committee Chides Treasury, Justice Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—House tax fraud investigators, rapping both the Treasury and Justice Departments for what they termed a failure to correct mistakes in tax collection procedures, have laid the groundwork for new inquiries.

In a final report based on 19 months of investigation into the scandal-ridden federal tax system, they turned over to their successors in the new Republican Congress a program of reforms they said were still needed.

The outgoing members of the House ways and means tax investigating subcommittee proposed further inquiries involving:

1. The alcohol tax unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, whose "powers extend over a significant area of American industry." The unit is charged with supervision and control of the liquor industry.

2. The tax division of the Justice Department. This division was chided for what the committee called failure to eliminate time-consuming handling of tax cases. The group raised the question whether it is "the proper agency to form tax litigation policy."

3. FUNCTIONING of the revenue bureau under the reorganization program which took effect last March, and which eliminated the offices of collector of internal revenue, political plums before the reorganization plan placed them under civil service.

Rep. Kean (R-N.J.), who will succeed Rep. King (D-Calif.) as chairman of the subcommittee after Jan. 3, has said the subcommittee will act promptly to start public hearings on the alcohol tax unit, and will look into possible "political infiltration" of the reorganized revenue bureau.

The subcommittee's final report dealt primarily with reforms already effected as a result of its hearings over the last 18 months. In a series of legislative and administrative (Continued on Page Two)

Iranian Airplane Crash Kills 23

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—An Iranian Airways plane crashed in a dense fog Sunday night a few miles from Tehran Airport, killing 23 persons, including four Americans. Only two passengers survived the Christmas night tragedy.

The plane, inbound from Isfahan, 21 miles south of Tehran, circled for a landing. It bounced several hundred yards in an open field, then broke apart. Investigators believe the pilot miscalculated the altitude in attempting a blind landing.

Ike's Korea Plans Indicate New Pressure Against Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans of the Eisenhower administration for dealing with the Korean war appear likely to aim at putting new pressures on the Chinese Communists while easing the battle burden of American forces.

To this end, the belief here is that, as a minimum, President-elect Eisenhower and his secretary of state-to-be, John Foster Dulles, will promptly call for:

1. A United Nations economic blockade of Red China.

2. Maximum speedup in the training of South Korean forces and their assignment to front line positions.

How far beyond these minimum actions the new President and his advisers may be willing to go remains to be seen, because despite his trip to Korea, his unprecedented mid-Pacific conferences with prospective aides and his meeting with Gen. MacArthur in New York, Eisenhower so far has not tipped his hand.

A NEW FACTOR of uncertain weight was injected into the knotty situation Thursday by publication by the New York Times of a reply from Premier Stalin to four questions posed by the Times.

Stalin said Russia is interested in ending the Korean war, and that he would co-operate in any new

Only A Flare Used To Bust Up Red Convoy

SEoul (AP)—The Air Force told today how the crew of a night-flying B-26 bomber broke up a Communist truck convoy with nothing but a flare.

Cruising over battered highways in the Eastern North Korean mountains, Maj. Orel C. Oudekirk of Canton, Tex., saw supply trucks grinding over an ice-covered road with their lights on. The plane's bomb load already had been expended in knocking out 23 trucks.

"We had some target-making flares, so the major brought us in and we let one go right on top of the convoy," said Capt. William L. Musladin of San Francisco.

"A tremendous explosion rocked the whole place," said Airman 2-C James E. McConaughy of Amsterdam, Ohio.

Engineer-gunner Airman 1-C Alfred D. Agliarolo of Brooklyn, explained:

"When they switched out their lights, pandemonium broke out down there. Apparently a truck driver smashed into another truck in the darkness. They must have been loaded with ammunition or gas the way they blew up."

Airlines Setting Safety Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's scheduled airlines apparently compiled their best safety record this year with 0.38 passenger deaths for each 100 million passenger miles, the Civil Aeronautics Board says.

The death rate was an estimate, based on latest available statistics for the year not quite ended. The rate for 1951 was 1.3 deaths for each 100 million passenger miles. The previous low record was 1.1, set in 1950.

Dulles Asks Reds To Tell Peace Plans

Statement Replies To Russian's Remarks Printed On Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The incoming Eisenhower administration today challenged Russia's Premier Stalin to put forth "concrete proposals" on promoting peace and promised they would be "seriously and sympathetically received."

A statement taking that position was issued by John Foster Dulles, who will be the new administration's secretary of state, after Dulles had talked with President-elect Eisenhower.

The statement was the first reaction of the new administration to replies given by Stalin to four questions presented to him by the New York Times and published Thursday morning.

Stalin expressed willingness to meet with Eisenhower in response to one question and he also said Russia was interested in ending the Korean war.

Dulles made this statement: "I have read with interest the published account of Mr. Stalin's views. If these mean that Mr. Stalin has concrete proposals to make to the new administration after it takes office, he can rest assured that they will be seriously and sympathetically received."

"DIPLOMATIC or United Nations channels of communication are always available for such purposes and for exchanges of views designed to find ways to promote peace and international good will."

The normal diplomatic channels for contact between Washington and Moscow are the Soviet embassy here and the American embassy there. At the United Nations Russian and American delegations have a constant opportunity of quick and informal contact.

There was a bit of cautious optimism on Capitol Hill, but in administration circles in downtown Washington the feeling seemed to be that Stalin had offered little if anything new in a reply to four questions submitted to him by the New York Times.

STALIN DECLARED that "aggressive actions" taken in the West's Cold War policy against Russia are the main causes of world tension and said (1) he regards "favorably" the idea of a meeting with Eisenhower; (2) war between the U. S. and the Soviet Union is not inevitable; (3) Russia is "interested in ending the war in Korea"; and (4) the sources of world contention lie "everywhere and in everything wherever the aggressive actions" of the Cold War find expression.

Stalin has on several occasions in the past responded to written questions posed by U. S. newsmen and almost invariably he has expressed a belief that a U. S.-Russian war is not inevitable and a willingness to meet with the U. S. chief executive.

Nor did there appear to be much fresh hope, from the Western viewpoint, in Stalin's expressed willingness to co-operate in any new diplomatic gestures looking toward peace in Korea.

This reply, it is true, created the most interest in Washington, but some skepticism was expressed privately as to whether the Russian leader was sincerely interested in a new approach to the peace problem, or whether this was more of the same Kremlin propaganda.

In any event, it was evident that as far as the Truman administration is concerned, something more than Stalin's words—some concrete evidence of hope for a truce—would be needed to create interest.

Faith In UN Said Needed By U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans should not let allegations that subversives have infiltrated the U. S. staff at the United Nations undermine their faith in the world organization, Sen. O'Connor (D-Md.) says.

O'Connor is a member of the Senate internal security subcommittee, whose hearings have been a factor in the discharge of 29 U. S. nationals from the UN staff. The Americans were fired on the ground that they may be disloyal to the U. S. government, O'Connor said.

"Even such an unsavory condition as has been disclosed should not be permitted to tear down or endanger the structure of international co-operation which has been so laboriously erected."

Pettit Receives New Rating In Naval Academy

Among the Midshipmen First Class appointed at the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis to serve during the Winter term as Midshipman Lt. (jg) was Thomas E. Pettit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Pettit of 481 N. Pickaway St.

Pettit entered the Naval Academy in June, 1949, after graduating from Circleville High School. He also attended the U. S. Naval Academy Preparatory School in Bainbridge, Md.

Appointments to midshipman rank in the brigade organization at the Naval Academy are based upon relative class standing in aptitude for the Naval service, leadership, academics and conduct.

The senior rank is midshipman captain, and the man holding it is the brigade commander and wears six narrow gold stripes on his sleeves.

Eligible for this selection was one-half of the First (senior) class, made up of 930 midshipmen.

In March the third, or "Spring Set" of "strikers" will be selected from the entire class to serve for the remainder of the current academic year.

ministrative recommendations, however, it suggested stricter policing of both taxpayers and government agents.

One way to "reduce possible corrupt practices in the bureau is to minimize the opportunities and temptations," the probers said.

As safeguards, it recommended: 1. A larger tax enforcement staff, with higher pay and assurance of non-political merit promotions for agents.

2. REQUIREMENTS for detailed record keeping by taxpayers to substantiate their tax return claims, and to reduce the degree of discretion permitted agents in allowing deductions.

3. A requirement for disclosure of the source and nature of a taxpayer's income, a weapon intended to use against racketeers and tax evaders.

4. Elimination of the practice of claiming tax deductions, as business expense, of tax-free benefits to key employees and "overly liberal" expense accounts constituting a form of tax-free income.

5. Full publicity by the bureau on tax compromises and administrative decisions affecting taxpayers. The bureau now has a policy of limited publicity.

Seven Persons Injured In Four Accidents Here During Holiday

Seven persons were injured, none seriously, in four accidents on Pickaway County highways during the Christmas holiday.

The record is one of the best for the county during Christmas traffic in the last few years.

Three persons, a young mother and two children, were injured at about 4:40 p. m. Wednesday in a two-car crash on Route 22, about four miles west of town.

State Highway Patrolman Ray Hoylman said the accident happened when an auto operated west by Delmer Johnson, 28, of Carrollton, attempted to pass another west-bound auto operated by Ronald Clark, 19, of Circleville.

HOYLMAN said the Johnson car was passing when it was faced with oncoming traffic. The Johnson car swerved to the right to cut back

Fire Damages Small Dwelling In Northend

Approximately half of a two-room Hayward avenue house was destroyed Friday morning when a fuel oil heater burst into flames.

Owners of the dwelling, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Forest, fled from their burning home after making a futile effort to drag the stove outside. Both suffered minor burns.

Circleville fire department responded to the call at 10:50 a. m. and succeeded in holding serious damage to only one of the rooms, which was virtually destroyed. The other room was damaged but will be sufficient to house the Forests until larger quarters can be built.

Forest had recently moved the home to the site and planned to enlarge it later. A foundation for the addition was already constructed.

FIRE CHIEF Talmer Wise estimated damage at $350.

At 10:40 p. m. Wednesday, city firefighters investigated a defective chimney at the home of Leonard Lytle on North Pickaway St.

And at 9:30 a. m. Thursday they checked on a reported fire at 119 W. Union St. and found the fire scare due to materials burning on top of the furnace.

Average Man Wants High Salary And Absolutely No Responsibility

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What mother ever raised her boy to be a vice president?

Probably none. Mothers want their sons to be doctors or lawyers or dentists or engineers. But they are missing a bet.

Why shouldn't a wise mother today aim her lad from birth toward one of the safest and most profitable careers in America, that of being a vice president? There are thousands upon thousands of vice presidents in this country, yet not one started life with that idea in mind. They all get there by accident.

But why shouldn't a smart young fellow set out deliberately to make himself a vice president? Why shouldn't business colleges have a course entitled, "How to become a vice president and stop right there?"

There is a popular belief that every man would like to have a high-paying post with a lot of responsibility. That isn't so. What the average man really craves is a high-paying post with absolutely no responsibility. And for that you can't beat the job of vice president.

Look at what it offers:

1. A swivel chair in a warm office out of the wind and the rain.

2. A secretary to answer the phone calls from your wife. And who else would phone a vice president?

3. Prestige. Everybody thinks you're important but nobody knows why.

4. Security. Nobody ever fires a vice president, because he never does anything wrong. Since nobody really knows what his duties are, he wisely decides the best way to keep from doing something wrong is to do nothing.

Some folks believe vice president are frustrated, neurotic executives consumed by gnawing ambition and who spend their days off lying on a psychiatrist's couch asking:

"Why can't I be a president instead of just another vice president?"

Nothing could be further from fact. Most vice presidents are contented, cheerful men whose sleep is haunted by only one terror:

"What if they ever made me president of the firm? What would I do?"

They know they have a happy life, and they don't want anybody to mess it up by giving them more responsibility. Who lives longer anyway—presidents or vice presidents?

If I were a young fellow starting on a fresh career I'd go to work for a big firm and tell them right off, "my goal is to be a vice president." The chances are the president would be so surprised at such a strange ambition he'd make you a vice president right off—just out of curiosity.

Of course, the perfect title to aim at is "vice president - in-charge-of-seeing-what-all-the-other-vice-presidents-are-doing."

That is living at the peak.

Wise Men Seek Jesus

THEY WORSHIPED THE BABE AND BROUGHT GIFTS

Scripture—Matthew 2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE BIRTH of what other child has made such a stir in the world as that of the infant Jesus? There is rejoicing in many countries when a son and heir is born to the ruler of the country. In countries where kings and queens still reign, their birthdays are legal holidays to their people and in their colonies.

Nowhere in history, however, is any birthday so generally celebrated all over the world, and has been for centuries, as is Christmas. New hope for a peaceful and co-operative world always floods the mind when we read the words uttered by the angels, as related in St. Luke's gospel, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

St. Luke gives us the fuller account of His birth, as it is he who tells of the circumstances concerning the birth of John the Baptist and the annunciation to Mary. He tells of the shepherds where Jesus, Mary and Joseph were, and stood over it. When they saw the young Child with Mary they fell down and worshipped Him, and "when they had opened their treasures they presented Him gifts, gold, and frankincense and myrrh."

Frankincense, the choicest of all odors, was thought to come from Arabia, but is now thought to come from India. It is a gum exuding from a plant, and was the highest prized and costliest of all of the scents of antiquity.

Myrrh oozed from an acacia-like plant found in Arabia. It was used dry as a gum, or liquid, as an ointment, and was used in embalming.

Warned in a dream that they should not return to Jerusalem, the wise men went home by another route.

An angel also appeared to Joseph in a dream and told him to take the Child and His Mother and flee into Egypt "and be there until I bring thee word; for

MEMORY VERSE

"Ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart."—Jeremiah 29:13.

and their visit to the Babe. St. Matthew begins his second chapter with the words.

"Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is He that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star in the east, and are come to worship Him."

Now Herod was an interloper, according to history, and fearful of losing his throne which he held under Rome. So, naturally, when he heard what these wealthy and influential men were asking he was pretty upset, and all Jerusalem with him.

Herod sent for all the chief priests and scribes of the people and asked them where the Christ should be born, and they answered readily, "In Bethlehem," according to the ancient prophecy. "And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a governor, that shall rule My people Israel."

This report was not likely to comfort Herod, so he sent for the wise men, and meeting them secretly he said, "Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found Him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship Him also."

The wise men went their way, and the star led them to the place

Herod will seek the young Child to destroy Him."

So Joseph did as the angel said, and the three departed into Egypt. They remained there until the death of Herod, "that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Out of Egypt have I called My Son."

When Herod found he had been tricked by the wise men, he was furious, and he ordered all young children of two years of age and younger in Bethlehem to be slain. Can you imagine a more horrible thing to do? He was a wicked, wicked man.

When Herod died the angel of the Lord again appeared to Joseph and told him to take his wife and their Babe back to Israel. When they arrived Joseph found that Herod's son, Archelaus, reigned in Judaea, so he was afraid to go back. Again warned in a dream, Joseph turned aside into the parts of Galilee.

"And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, He shall be called a Nazarene."

When this lesson reaches you Christmas day will have passed, but the Christmas spirit will still be with us, and we will be glad to talk again about the pilgrims who saw the Babe in His manger birthplace and rejoice over the gifts they gave Him in devout worship.

'52 Baby Crop May Set Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1952 baby crop may set a U. S. record. The U. S. Public Health Service, in a report issued Tuesday, estimated last year's babies at 3,833,000 and said indications are that the 1952 crop will be one to two per cent greater.

Based on figures for the first 10 months of this year, the health service said the birth rate should be about 25 live births for each 1,000 population, about the same as last year.

The only time in 25 years that the birth rate has gone above that was in 1947, when it was 26.6 for each 1,000 population.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. has about four million business firms, the commerce department reported Tuesday, most of them "very small" and half of them only about four years old.

The department made a survey, based on the business population at the end of 1951. It found there were 4,014,000 business firms, not counting farm ownership.

IN TRADITION

AMONG THE TRAGIC legends of the sea, none is more fraught with emotion, even after a lapse of four decades, than the sinking of the steamship Titanic. Legend is the wrong word, for it is a brutal fact that 1,517 persons lost their lives in that disaster.

When a Senate investigation was conducted at New York and Washington, right after the survivors had landed, the principal witness was Charles Herbert Lightoller, then 38, second officer of the Titanic and the sole officer to be saved. He went down with the ship, managed to reach a half-submerged life raft and was taken aboard the rescue ship, Carpathia.

Before a confused, vengeful group of Senators, Lightoller told what he had experienced in the manliest, most objective fashion, eliciting the approval both of his White Star Line superiors and the most critical members of Congress.

Now, at 78, he is dead at his home in England. He was too old for active service in World War II, but he ran his 60-foot motor boat to Dunkerque and brought back 130 men on one trip. Two of his three sons died in the war.

The Titanic disaster resulted in strict provision for sufficient lifeboats, rafts and preservers for passenger ships, as well as the establishment of an international ice patrol under U. S. auspices.

But the sea is never safe and utmost vigilance remains a norm of operation. Commander Lightoller's conduct in the Titanic disaster and his subsequent career were in the highest tradition of the merchant service.

WALLY STILL OUT

JUST HOW THE DUCHESS of Windsor would rate with the new royal family in England has been a matter of considerable speculation. There was speculation on this side of the ocean whether, after being banished all these years, American-born Wally, for whom King Edward VIII gave up his throne, would finally be forgiven and permitted to join the family circle.

But this is not to be. The Duke has announced that he and Wally will not be among those present at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth next Summer. Reason for their absence is a bit technical. It would not be in accordance with constitutional usage, he explains, for a former sovereign to attend such a function.

That lets Wally out, again, and perhaps finally. She doesn't seem to mind, however, and she and the Duke are having a rather gay time of it, commuting between Paris and New York.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

If I wrote what I am going to quote from an article by A. Sobolev, which appeared in the "Bolshevik," the leading publication in Soviet Russia, you might say it is the same old stuff, the same old red-baiting. You might even discount it and say that you had known it all the time. Some might even speak of harping on the same subject, which is necessary because with the casualties mounting in Korea, what can be more important?

But the article from which I take this quotation has been reprinted in many languages since it first appeared in October, 1951. It explains what happened in many countries, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania, China; it explains what the Russians hope will happen in other countries now not part of their empire. It is what they are trying to do to us with their so-called peace campaign which is designed to weaken our will to resist them. This article explains the five steps by which Soviet Russia conquers a country:

"First, the Soviet Army was the direct liberator of these countries from the Fascist enslavement.

"Secondly, the Soviet Union brought to nought the designs for Anglo-American intervention with regard to the countries of Central and Southeastern Europe, and thus saved them from a new imperialist—Anglo-American—oppression.

"Thirdly, the Soviet Army smashed the allies of Hitlerite Germany, the armed forces of Rumanian, Hungarian and Bulgarian Fascist reaction, and this naturally facilitated the victory of People's Democracy in these countries. The presence of Soviet troops prevented the reactionary forces from launching civil war.

"Fourthly, the Soviet Union extended immense moral and political support to the countries of People's Democracy, and helped them to strengthen their international position. Of great importance was the economic aid. The Soviet government helped these countries with equipment and raw materials for industry and food supplies for the population, etc.

"Finally, the Soviet Union has assisted and is assisting the toilers of these countries with its rich experience in social reforms."

Note: The United States did not liberate any of these countries from Hitler, according to A. Sobolev. We did nothing. We supplied nothing. Actually, we are painted as enemies, imperialists, oppressors. Not a word is said of our great contribution to the victory of World War II. Not a word is said of UNRRA, of giving these governments food and clothes and blankets, for which we paid the largest share. Not one word is said even of Soviet Russia being an ally of the United States and getting $11 billion of Lend-Lease, never repaid and never accounted for. Not one word is said of that, although but for it, Hitler might have succeeded in his effort to hold these countries.

DIET AND HEALTH

Vitamins Tend to Slow Down Aging Process of the Brain

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE have known for some years that the body requires a proper supply of vitamins. A diet that is deficient in these vital substances brings severe as well as painful diseases.

It now appears that a shortage of the vitamin niacin can also bring on mental changes seen in senility. People getting toward their sixties might even benefit from taking this vitamin regularly to keep clear minds in old age.

Aging Process

We all know that many men and women past 60 begin to have lapses in memory, confusion about recent events, and faulty judgment. These are all due to an aging process of the brain, known as senility. It is believed that a lack of niacin, one of the vitamin B group, sets the stage for many cases of senility.

Usually a niacin deficiency develops in an older person because of improper diet. It may also be caused by failure of the intestines to absorb the vitamin properly.

Needs More Niacin

An older person usually needs a greater amount of niacin than a young adult. When this amount drops too low, it may subject these older persons to mental changes. Then, as a result of their failure in thinking, they take less food, and thus the condition tends to grow worse.

When large doses of niacin are given to these people, mental improvement may be seen within three months. If this improvement occurs, small doses are then given to keep the person in proper mental health.

Helps Those Under 65

Usually the degree of improvement depends on the patient's age. Vitamin treatments help over half the patients with senile changes up to 65 years of age. However, only ten per cent of the older patients are benefited.

It is also good to begin the treatments as soon as mental lapses are noticed. The sooner after the person shows the beginning of symptoms, the better the chance of success.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

EMILY did not attempt any answer to David's thunderbolt declaration that he had fallen in love with Priscilla. She sat staring at David, in dumb and horrible belief, and she did not resist when he leaned forward and took her hand. She was vaguely aware that the gesture was meant to be kindly, almost compassionate, but it failed in its purpose. It seemed to have no meaning whatsoever. An hour earlier, she would have said that the slightest touch from David's fingers would kindle her to ardor. Now she did not feel anything at all. She was completely numb, as she had been in that strange period after Roger had died.

"All this is so hard to say that I know I'll do it very badly," David went on. "But I've got to begin by asking you to believe that I never lied to you. When I told you I loved you, it was true—so overwhelmingly true that I felt I had to tell you, even though you were married to someone else. You do believe me, don't you, Emily?"

She still could not speak, she still could not make any immediate sign. But after a moment or two, though her lips were still pressed tightly together, she inclined her head, and he took it for a sign of assent.

"I went overseas, still loving you. I still loved you when Roger died. I thought I ought to wait a year at least, before I told you so again. By then, we were preparing for the invasion. Preparing very intensely. And I thought I'd wait a little longer. Until my declaration of love could be coupled with a sort of paean of victory. I told you I'd say all this very badly. I know I am. But you do understand, don't you?"

"Yes," Emily said.

"After that there wasn't any time to write letters. Not the kind I wanted to write, not the kind that would have been worthy of you. But I still meant to do it. I still loved you. I don't know why I kept saying I still loved you as if it were in the past. I love you now. As much as I ever did, in one way. But not the way I did before. Ever though I'd never asked you, in so many words, to marry me, that was because of a combination and a succession of circumstances. I'd wanted to marry you, for a long time, and it was implicit in what I'd said to you. It wasn't your fault, either, that I didn't want to any longer. You hadn't done anything to change my feelings. It was just one of those things that happens once in a while, especially in wartime. When two people have been through a war together—well, somehow there's a bond between them that's different from other bonds. It's stronger. It has more meaning, it's bound to be more lasting. What happened as far as you and I are concerned won't happen again. From now on, if you release me, Priscilla'll be the only woman in my life."

Emily was back in her own house within the time limit she had set for herself; but though she had been correct in her expectation that no major repairs would be required, countless small renovations seemed desirable and she and Deirdre were both busy from morning till night. Brian burst in upon her, unceremoniously, one morning while she was dusting books.

"I had a wedding invitation this morning that came like a bolt from the blue: 'Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Endicott Forbes request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Priscilla Anne, to Major David Salomont.' What's the meaning of this, Emily?"

"Well, it sounds to me as if David and Priscilla were about to be married. Doesn't it sound that way to you?"

"Listen, I'm not in the mood for pointless jokes. Did you know David and Priscilla were going to be married?"

"Yes."

"How long have you known it?"

"About a fortnight."

Brian appeared to do some quick calculating. "I'd be a good deal surprised to find it was quite as long as that. I'd bet anything you didn't know it that day you lured me up to your grandfather's attic and induced me to guzzle down your grandfather's rum."

"Well, I said about a fortnight. I didn't count the days off on my fingers."

"But you didn't know it, that day we were in the attic, did you?"

"No, I didn't. Have you been back to Cutter Mills yet, Briny? Do they know you're already separated from the Navy?"

"I haven't been back there and they don't know it yet. I've got other things to do and other things on my mind. When you told me you wouldn't marry me because you were in love with someone else, you were talking about David Salomont. Yes or no?"

"Briny, I've told you before that you ask too many questions and that some of them are pretty presumptuous. This last one is a very good example of what I mean. I don't want to be inquisitive, but I'm pretty busy right now and I know they're still terribly short-handed at Cutter Mills. I think it would be a wonderful idea if you'd give me a chance to dust these books while you go down to the office and say you're ready to start work again."

"That's what you think. Do you want to know what I think? I think David Salomont is a—"

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—Chief Justice Fred Vinson of the Supreme Court has achieved the ambition for which every presiding officer of this body has yearned but rarely attained.

Temporarily, at least, he has squelched personal and judicial bickering on the top tribunal of justice, in striking contrast to downtown, Trumanesque squabbling.

Dissenters are no more popular on the Supreme Court than they are in any other human area—a family, a corporation, a political party or the United Nations.

Even the good-natured William Howard Taft, as C. J., used to groan when the conclusions of his great opinions each Monday wound up with the constant reiteration: "Justices Holmes and Brandeis dissent."

UNANIMITY—His successor, Charles Evans Hughes, was a stickler for unanimity. He frequently delayed announcement of decisions for weeks while he sought vainly to rally or round up a solid majority.

Like Taft, he did not think that rulings involving great affairs, domestic and foreign, should be handed down amidst a clamorous disagreement more fitting for a ladies' aid society than the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Hughes worshipped what he used to call "judicial decorum."

SQUABBLING—Five-to-four and even 6-3 splits hurt his conscience. Although he admired such colleagues as Brandeis, Holmes and Cardozo, the most frequent dissenters, he grieved at their "cussedness."

But even he was not able to carry his judicial precincts with solid majorities until, as a counter-offensive to FDR's court-packing proposal, he told them one memorable day that "If we don't hang together, we'll hang separately!"

For more than a decade now, the Roosevelt-Truman court, composed of reformers, professors, individualists, politicians and ideologists, and with a minimum of previous experience on the bench has been squabbling personally and judicially. There have been times when the honorables, or a few of them, did not speak to each other.

MAJORITIES—Where those eminent jurists failed, Chief Justice Vinson, an ex-baseball player, a veteran member of the House, a shrewd and likable politician, a man Friday for two Presidents during World War II, and a man of limited experience on the bench before his appointment to his present post by Truman, has succeeded, for the moment at least. Even a Supreme Court is unpredictable.

During the fall session, he has had six whopping majorities in cases of considerable importance whereas the bothersome 5-4 divisions have shown up on relatively minor matters. The notable exception was the close vote on the constitutionality of Truman's seizure of the steel plants, when Vinson amazed his friends by upholding the White House viewpoint.

NO SOLID BLOC—On almost every piece of litigation which helped to build an important body of precedents, the votes have been 8-0, 8-1, and 7-2. Equally significant, there is no solid bloc of dissenters. On several occasions, Justice Douglas, the foot-loose liberal, has teamed with Justice Frankfurter, the aging conservative, in disagreement.

Eight judges; for instance, struck down the list compiled by the Department of Justice as a basis for deciding whether public officials and political organizations had entered into "subversive associations." They held that the blacklist had been compiled in an arbitrary, whimsical and unconstitutional manner.

RULINGS—It was 7-1 in the momentous question of court use of evidence obtained by wiretapping, a dangerous prosecutorial device in a democracy; the Court held such evidence could be available in state trials, but not in federal. Important, too, was the 7-2 decision barring Food and Drug agents from making "unreasonable" inspections of plants.

Other significant rulings of this kind involved corporations' compensation for war losses, and a dispute between Soviet and anti-Soviet factions for control of a Russian Orthodox church in this country.

Chief Justice Vinson's anxiety over the unanimity question is understandable. Before the Supreme Court today is the constitutionality of segregation in elementary schools. It would be a domestic tragedy, socially, economically and politically, if the Court handed down a 5-4 verdict, one way or the other, on this modern Dred Scott litigation.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Stalin had nothing to lose by giving pleasant answers Christmas Day to questions about peace. By being pleasant, he made propaganda hay. If he had snarled, it would have been propaganda against him.

Actually, he committed himself to nothing when he said he was "favorable" to arrangements for a meeting between himself and president-elect Eisenhower and would "co-operate" in trying for peace in Korea. He has loopholes for doing nothing, if he intends doing nothing.

The New York Times on Dec. 18 submitted to the Russian Embassy several questions to be forwarded to Stalin. The timing of the answers may have been accidental but, from the viewpoint of Russian propagandists, was excellent. The answers were delivered to the Times late Christmas Eve night.

Because the Times is a morning paper, the Stalin story had to appear in the Christmas morning editions. And, with news usually scarce Christmas Day, a Stalin statement was bound to get maximum attention. It did.

And, since Christmas is the one day when the Western world sings most longingly of peace on earth, Stalin may have felt it was the day most appropriate for representing himself as big-hearted Joe, although it is well known he is no believer in Santa Claus.

One of the Times' questions said: "Would you welcome diplomatic conversations with representatives of the new Eisenhower administration looking toward the possibility of a meeting between yourself and Gen. Eisenhower on easing world tensions?"

Stalin answered: "I regard this suggestion favorably."

Stalin was being consistent with the party line. The Communists claim to be the genuine peace-lovers, even when blocking or destroying it, as they did with the invasion of Korea. Further, if Stalin was talking strictly for propaganda and doesn't want to meet

Eisenhower, the wording of the question and the answer are general enough to give Stalin a big, wide out.

As the question indicated—and this was what Stalin said yes to—before he and Eisenhower ever got together diplomats on both sides would have to meet to decide what the two men should discuss when they met. But the Russians could easily prevent such a meeting, on Stalin's instructions, by squabbling with the Western diplomats until the whole business fell apart in disagreement.

Another times' question said: "Would you co-operate in any new diplomatic approach designed to bring about an end to the Korean War?"

How could Stalin say no? He wouldn't look good. He said: "I agree to co-operate because the USSR is interested in ending the war in Korea." And maybe at last Russia really wants the war ended. But it hasn't demonstrated any such inclination.

One of the troubles, or gimmicks, in Stalin's answer about co-operation is that what he calls co-operation may look to the West like downright wrecking tactics.

In view of the Russian record it seems unlikely Stalin intends his answers to have real meaning, although he could make them have it, if he wanted to.

Some Farmers May Use 13 Tax Forms

Some say "13" is unlucky—but some farmers will have to use 13 income tax report forms this season.

It is possible some farmers will have to obtain four sets of forms to report income to the bureau of internal revenue.

The four sets total 13 forms. Those farmers who have to use all 13 forms probably will be in the minority, however.

All farmers will need two copies each of forms 1040 and 1040 F—four forms. For each employee who received $600 or more during the year, farmers will need two copies of form 1096 and three copies of form 1099—five forms for each employee.

THOSE FARMERS who want to file estimates of tax will need two

You may think that this type of blatant, lying propaganda falls on deaf ears. It does not. The plain people of every country hear nothing but this. What they hear of the broadcasts over the Voice of America and Radio Free Europe, we do not know. We can only hope that some of their work goes through to them.

But the great masses of people get this kind of Russian propaganda in large doses, on the radio, on loudspeakers, in the movies. The Russians push these ideas relentlessly and ceaselessly. They drive these ideas into the minds of people by constant repetition until nothing else is believed.

They spread the Big Lie.

The object of all these efforts is to make people hate America, to hate our country with a deep fear of us, until they will serve their Russian masters in any manner desired of them. While in such countries as ours they give the impression that they favor peace, actually they are steaming up their peoples to be ready for war.

This is never a popular story to write, and certainly not one for this time of the year. But the situation in Europe, in Africa, in Asia is such that one dares not withhold an iota of our peril.

We are, as a nation, moving into one of those critical situations which requires great wisdom and even greater courage. That must be in the hearts of the people if those who have been chosen to govern for us are to succeed.

When faced by the truth, Americans have thus far in their history never flinched.

Good Soil Management Pays Off For 'Wheat King'

Rotation Plan With Legumes Is Secret

High Crop Yields And Top Quality Are Dividends

Good soil management paid off for Spencer Dunham, 40, of Caro, Mich., crowned "Wheat King" during the hay and grain show of the International Livestock Exposition. Dunham keeps his soil in prime crop producing condition by growing deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation and adding all the plant nutrients his crops need for top yields.

The new wheat champion won his crown with Yorkwin, a soft winter variety. This was the second year running a Michigan wheat grower has been named "Wheat King." Last year's winner was Harold Metcalf, of neighboring Fairgrove, in Tuscola county. He, too, exhibited Yorkwin.

DUNHAM'S winning wheat sample weighed 59.6 pounds per bushel and yielded 40 bushels to the acre. He farms 180 acres, of which 100 is rented. He bought the present farm about four years ago. He reports the land was in good shape when he took over. Since then he has built it up further and maintained its fertility by good management methods.

Although he carries a few feeder cattle, generally there are no livestock to provide manure so Dunham relies on plowed-under legumes and crop residues to keep up the soil's organic matter supply. In the rotation, there is an alfalfa crop every third year. The rotation may include beans or peas; oats, barley or corn; wheat and a legume seeding.

Dunham fertilizes all the crops with a nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer. He usually adds about 250 pounds per acre of 3-12-12 or 4-16-16.

On the wheat seeding he puts part of the fertilizer on in the fall and the rest in the spring. With corn, he side-dresses 100 pounds per acre of a nitrogen fertilizer in addition to the plant food added in the row at planting time.

"Getting high crop yields with good quality is a dollars-and-cents necessity if you want to make any money farming these days," Dunham said.

"PRODUCTION costs have zoomed to such a height that you have to grow big crops to get past the break-even point. Using plenty of fertilizer can help you get the extra bushels per acre that cut down your production costs and boost your profits."

Dunham is active in farm organization work and is an assistant 4-H Club leader. His five children—Janet, 13, Joan, 11, Joyce, 9, Jack, 8 and Robert, 7, all are interested in farming.

The two older girls carry an extensive 4-H project schedule. Janet is feeding a Guernsey calf and she and Joyce are partners in a Hereford steer feeding project.

Flagpole Mark Challenge Seen

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—William L. (Happy) Howard's flagpole sitting record of 196 days may be challenged in some quarters.

That is because he did the sitting in two states. He set out to break the record June 1 across the Columbia River in Washougal, Wash. But after several months interest in the project lagged there and Howard, atop a section of the pole, was moved by truck to a Portland amusement park. He climbed down on Christmas Day announcing that he had set a record. The previous record was held by Emma Leach of Eugene, Ore., who stayed on top a pole above a San Francisco used car lot for 152 days.

Normal Life Is Man's Best Christmas Gift

SEATTLE (AP)—A 20-year-old man who had been doomed to die within five years because of a malformed heart cherished today the greatest Christmas gift of all—that of a normal life.

An unnamed Seattle surgeon and the sisters of charity of Providence were the donors.

A brother, a year younger, will undergo the same corrective surgery in the near future, through the generosity of the surgeon and the sisters.

It was just six weeks ago when Frank Gunderson of Thompson Falls, Mont., walked into the surgeon's office. He had been sent by his hometown doctors, who said that without an operation young Gunderson had only four or five more years to live.

In the youth's pocket was his life savings of $140. Gently, the surgeon explained that repairing a heart artery which failed to close normally at birth was costly—far more than $140.

But the surgeon told the Providence sisters of the case, and they agreed to donate the needed care at Providence Hospital here. The surgeon said there would be no charge for the operation.

On Dec. 13, Frank's abnormal artery was cut and the two ends were sewn shut in a delicate piece of surgery. The malformation is known technically as patent ductus arteriosus.

1953 Farm Production Goals Stressing Livestock Feeds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has set 1953 farm production goals with an eye towards an American dinner plate laden with meat and other livestock products.

He suggested further shifts in production from "cash" crops which need export markets to production of corn, grain sorghum, oats, hay and grass to support an expanding livestock, dairy and poultry industry for American appetites.

Brannan told farmers that foreign buyers are expected to take less cotton, wheat, and possibly tobacco and rice in the years to come. Consequently, continued high level production of these products, he said, could do nothing but bring or new farm surpluses, depressed prices, and production controls later.

It would be better, the secretary said, to produce more livestock feed. Extra production above the coming year's livestock feed needs is desired so that reserves might be built to protect the nation against possible crop failures and international emergencies.

Brannan said that if the goals he set are attained, total agricultural production next year would equal if not exceed this year's record.

Aside from the advisability of building larger livestock feed reserves, there are other reasons, he said, why farmers should produce another big volume next year.

In the first place, Brannan said, it would be foolhardy to cut back during the current period of international uncertainty. Second, he said, the domestic demand for farm products is expected to remain high. Lastly, he said, the population is increasing and this in itself increases needs.

The goals are merely advisory. The secretary called for smaller crops of such oilseeds as soybeans and flaxseed, explaining that reserves of these are larger.

He said the present production pattern indicates more beef and less pork next year, about the same amount of milk and more eggs. As cattle numbers continue to increase, he added there will be need for less pork, and that this situation may exist for several years.

The 1953 planting goals for corn compared with this year's planted acreage include:

Ohio 3,600,000 and 3,581,000.

The 1953 planting goals for soybeans compared with this year's planting acreage include:

Ohio 915,000 and 940,000 acres.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Name and address will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

Realizing, of course, that it is little or no concern of us Chillicothe natives, but inasmuch as it is so apparent that Circleville is so pitifully lacking in Christmas decorations, we're wondering why?

Our own city is so bright with lights, together with music in keeping with the holiday season, it seems so odd that your town isn't celebrating in the same manner.

If it wasn't for the special decoration at your courthouse, one would hardly realize that it IS the Christmas season.

Washington C.H. is beautifully decorated; likewise Mt. Sterling and even in passing through little New Holland we found the streets decorated.

What is the matter with Circleville's civic organizations?

Remembering some of the past years, when your main square was strung with lights (and by the way, it was one of the prettiest sights we had seen) it seems so strange that the Yuletide spirit is only being manifested in Roundtown by the one bit of decoration at the courthouse.

There are so many things in this great land of ours for which we should be thankful and expressing ourselves at Christmas is one of our rare privileges.

Why not take full advantage of such a wonderful opportunity and show it?

Please take no offense at these few lines because, certainly, none is meant. But we do think it strange that Circleville, being among other things the seat of Pickaway County, should be more "on its toes" at this very special time of the year!

A very Merry Xmas to Circleville citizens.

Ohio Leads Christmas Day Highway Death Toll In U. S.

31 Persons Killed In State

All-Time Record In Nation Expected

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's holiday accident toll was the worst in the 48 states.

Since 6 p. m. Christmas Eve, 31 persons met their deaths in Ohio highway smashups.

Two separate head-on collisions, involving people bound for Christmas visiting, brought death to three persons in each crash. Three accidents involving double fatalities also were recorded.

In addition, there was one miscellaneous death, bringing the state's accident toll to 31.

In Cincinnati alone, there were 123 automobile accidents in which one person was killed and 20 injuries in Cincinnati between noon Wednesday and 6:30 a. m. today, Capt. Guy York of the Highway Safety Bureau reported.

The entire nation's Christmas holiday accident death toll has passed the 300 mark.

Auto mishaps killed 251 persons since 6 p. m. Wednesday local time. Twenty-three died in fires. Thirty-one other victims were killed in other type accidents.

WITH MORE than two and one half days of the extended 102-hour week still to come, it appeared that the all-time record of 555 traffic deaths for a four-day Christmas holiday in 1936 may be exceeded before midnight Sunday.

Last year's Christmas week end toll of all accidents was 789 deaths, 535 of them in traffic.

Highways in some parts of the Midwest and Northeast were icy, but clear, dry weather was reported over most of the country.

Some cities reported a record number of accidents. In Chicago, police said the 24 hours of Christmas Day were among the worst in the city's traffic history.

There were some 1,300 accidents. More than a dozen persons were killed, including four by hit-and-run drivers. Police blamed the heavy toll on drunken drivers and increased traffic because of the relatively mild weather.

The National Safety Council has estimated a traffic death toll of 590 for the 102-hour holiday week end period. Council President Ned H. Dearborn said if the present trend continues, however, "we are headed for an all time high for the holiday death toll."

The death toll by states, listing traffic, fire and miscellaneous: Alabama 1 0 0; Arizona 4 0 0; Arkansas 3 0 1; California 15 2 0; Colorado 2 0 0; Connecticut 1 0 0; Illinois 16 1 1; Indiana 13 0 0; Iowa 3 1 2; Kansas 2 1 0; Kentucky 3 0 2; Louisiana 5 2 0; Maryland 5 2 0; Massachusetts 4 1 1; Michigan 13 0 3; Minnesota 5 0 0; Mississippi 1 0 0; Missouri 14 1 0; Nebraska 1 0 0; New Hampshire 2 0 1; New Jersey 2 3 2; New Mexico 3 0 0; New York 23 2 2; North Carolina 4 0 5; Ohio 31 0 1; Oklahoma 9 0 0; Pennsylvania 16 1 1; South Carolina 7 0 1; South Dakota 1 0 0; Tennessee 6 1 3; Texas 7 1 1; Utah 1 0 0; Vermont 0 0 1; Virginia 11 4 0; Washington 4 0 0; West Virginia 3 0 0; Wisconsin 1 0 1.

West Diplomats In Moscow Urge Look At Stalin Views

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Stalin's statement that he favors diplomatic conversations on Korea is regarded by observers here as a preliminary offer to use his good offices in arriving at a Korean settlement.

Western diplomats in Moscow suggested today that a new Western approach, based on the Prime Minister's replies to questions by the New York Times, is now a possibility that must be seriously considered.

They said the next move probably would depend on U. S. President-elect Eisenhower's attitude on the question. Several factors were mentioned as indicating that the Stalin statement on Korea might rate serious consideration:

1. The truce talks in Korea, now long deadlocked, were a direct result of a Soviet government declaration that it would help bring about a Korean settlement. No other official offer has been made since that one in June, 1951.

2. Stalin's influence and authority are undoubtedly enormous in Communist China and North Korea as well as in the Soviet Union.

3. In another instance, intervention by Stalin—in the explosive situation created by the Berlin blockade—helped produce a settlement.

Western diplomats working within the Soviet Union also saw interesting possibilities in the Stalin statement that he would welcome U. S.-Russian talks leading to a possible meeting between himself and President-elect Eisenhower.

The Westerners pointed out, however, that this Stalin declaration failed to represent anything new. Also, many questions, including where such a meeting might be held, would have to be settled before it could ever take place.

On previous occasions, the Soviet premier has indicated his willingness to join the heads of the United States and Britain in direct talks.

But it always has been stressed that Stalin's health prevented him from taking any long journeys—to America, for example.

Stalin's statement on world tensions monopolized all Moscow radio broadcasts Thursday.

Moscow's English-language transmissions beamed to the Western world repeated Stalin's replies to newspaper questions 48 times in the early morning alone. It also was the leading item on all the radio's home news bulletins.

The Red Chinese, too, got a full account. The statement was broadcast on the home news bulletins of Radio Peiping.

Power Lineman Survives Jolt

COLUMBUS (AP)—"Guess I was lucky," an electric company lineman said from his hospital bed today in relating how he survived the shock of 13,000 volts of electricity passing through his body.

Richard Sheets, 28, the lineman, suffered severe burns on five fingers of his right hand. He was repairing damage caused by an automobile accident, he said, and after mounting a 60-foot pole, grabbed what he thought was a "dead" wire. "I saw a big ball of fire and then passed out for a moment," he said.

'Respectable' Attorney Said Used As Brink's Gang Front

BOSTON (AP)—Unconfirmed reports said today the $1,219,000 loot from the Brink's robbery of Jan. 17, 1950, may have been placed in safe deposit boxes in various banks by a "respectable" Boston attorney acting as a front for the robbers.

The FBI refuses to comment on the report of how the loot was hidden after the daring evening robbery but three Boston newspapers report today that a lawyer was chosen by the gang to secret the cash.

The reports said the gang's plan called for the lawyer to hire some 40 safe deposit boxes in banks throughout the country where the money could be placed by him without suspicion.

The newspapers added that the lawyer's identity has been known to investigators for some time and said that he has been under surveillance for many months and is expected to be brought in for questioning in a few days.

Panel Urging Tougher Tax Collection Plan

Probing Committee Chides Treasury, Justice Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—House tax fraud investigators, rapping both the Treasury and Justice Departments for what they termed a failure to correct mistakes in tax collection procedures, have laid the groundwork for new inquiries.

In a final report based on 19 months of investigation into the scandal-ridden federal tax system, they turned over to their successors in the new Republican Congress a program of reforms they said were still needed.

The outgoing members of the House ways and means tax investigating subcommittee proposed further inquiries involving:

1. The alcohol tax unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, whose "powers extend over a significant area of American industry." The unit is charged with supervision and control of the liquor industry.

2. The tax division of the Justice Department. This division was chided for what the committee called failure to eliminate time-consuming handling of tax cases. The group raised the question whether it is "the proper agency to form tax litigation policy."

3. FUNCTIONING of the revenue bureau under the reorganization program which took effect last March, and which eliminated the offices of collector of internal revenue, political plums before the reorganization plan placed them under civil service.

Rep. Kean (R-N.J.), who will succeed Rep. King (D-Calif.) as chairman of the subcommittee after Jan. 3, has said the subcommittee will act promptly to start public hearings on the alcohol tax unit, and will look into possible "political infiltration" of the reorganized revenue bureau.

The subcommittee's final report dealt primarily with reforms already effected as a result of its hearings over the last 18 months. In a series of legislative and administrative actions.

Iranian Airplane Crash Kills 23

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—An Iranian Airways plane crashed in a dense fog Sunday night a few miles from Tehran Airport, killing 23 persons, including four Americans. Only two passengers survived the Christmas night tragedy.

The plane, inbound from Isfahan, 21 miles south of Tehran, circled for a landing. It bounced several hundred yards in an open field, then broke apart. Investigators believe the pilot miscalculated the altitude in attempting a blind landing.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. Frank J. Lausche will fly to Washington for the inauguration of President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower. The governor and Mrs. Lausche will attend a reception for governors Jan. 18.

Only A Flare Used To Bust Up Red Convoy

SEOUL (AP)—The Air Force told today how the crew of a night-flying B-26 bomber broke up a Communist truck convoy with nothing but a flare.

Cruising over battered highways in the Eastern North Korean mountains, Maj. Orel C. Oudekirk of Canton, Tex., saw supply trucks grinding over an ice-covered road with their lights on. The plane's bomb load already had been expended in knocking out 23 trucks.

"We had some target-making flares, so the major brought us in and we let one go right on top of the convoy," said Capt. William L. Musladin of San Francisco.

"A tremendous explosion rocked the whole place," said Airman 2-C James E. McConaughy of Amsterdam, Ohio.

Engineer-gunner Airman 1-C Alfred D. Agliarolo of Brooklyn, explained:

"When they switched out their lights, pandemonium broke out down there. Apparently a truck driver smashed into another truck in the darkness. They must have been loaded with ammunition or gas the way they blew up."

THE FERRICONE QUADRUPLTS from Beaumont, Tex., wave from deck of the U. S. Navy ship General W. F. Hase at San Francisco as they arrive home from Korea with a contingent of 2,856 GI vets. Ike's Korea Plans Indicate New Pressure Against Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans of the Eisenhower administration for dealing with the Korean war appear likely to aim at putting new pressures on the Chinese Communists while easing the battle burden of American forces.

To this end, the belief here is that, as a minimum, President-elect Eisenhower and his secretary of state-to-be, John Foster Dulles, will promptly call for:

1. A United Nations economic blockade of Red China.

2. Maximum speedup in the training of South Korean forces and their assignment to front line positions.

How far beyond these minimum actions the new President and his advisers may be willing to go remains to be seen, because despite his trip to Korea, his unprecedented mid-Pacific conferences with prospective aides and his meeting with Gen. MacArthur in New York, Eisenhower so far has not tipped his hand.

A NEW FACTOR of uncertain weight was injected into the knotty situation Thursday with publication by the New York Times of a reply from Premier Stalin to four questions posed by the Times.

Stalin said Russia is interested in ending the Korean war, and that he would co-operate in any new diplomatic approach toward a Korean truce.

Some authorities here believe that Eisenhower's major plans are still fluid and may continue so until, upon taking office, he gets a final look at all the Korean information and gets full authority.

At the same time, there are some elements in the situation and some factors in Eisenhower's and Dulles' own thinking which point to probable lines of action.

Earlier this month the United Nations General Assembly had its Korean peace appeal to the Chinese and North Korean regimes thrown back in its teeth. The Reds made clear they would only make peace on their own terms—that is, when and if the UN was willing to stop insisting upon voluntary repatriation of prisoners.

There was a bit of cautious optimism on Capitol Hill, but in administration circles in downtown Washington the feeling seemed to be that Stalin had offered little if anything new in a reply to four questions submitted to him by the New York Times.

STALIN DECLARED that "aggressive actions" taken in the West's Cold War policy against Russia are the main causes of world tension and said (1) he regards "favorably" the idea of a meeting with Eisenhower; (2) a war between the U. S. and the Soviet Union is not inevitable; (3) Russia is "interested in ending the war in Korea" and (4) the sources of world contention lie "everywhere and in everything wherever the aggressive actions" of the Cold War find expression.

Stalin has on several occasions in the past responded to written questions posed by U. S. newsmen and almost invariably he has expressed a belief that a U. S.-Russian war is not inevitable and a willingness to meet with the U. S. chief executive.

Nor did there appear to be much fresh hope, from the Western viewpoint, in Stalin's expressed willingness to co-operate in any new diplomatic gestures looking toward peace in Korea.

This reply, it is true, created the most interest in Washington, but some skepticism was expressed privately as to whether the Russian leader was sincerely interested in a new approach to the peace problem, or whether this was more of the same Kremlin propaganda.

In any event, it was evident that as far as the Truman administration is concerned, something more than Stalin's words—some concrete evidence of hope for a truce—would be needed to create interest.

Colder Weather Coming This Way

CHICAGO (AP)—Colder weather moved into the central part of the country today, with icy blasts pushing eastward from the Rockies and Western Plains and southward from Central Canada.

It was below zero again in the Rockies and parts of the Western Plains. It was below freezing all day Thursday as far south as Albuquerque, N. M., and Oklahoma City. The cold air was expected to cover wide areas in the eastern half of the country over the week end.

Twins Unchanged

CHICAGO (AP)—No change was reported today in the condition of the Brodie Siamese twins. The 15-month-old boys have been in critical condition since they were separated by surgery Dec. 17.

Dulles Asks Reds To Tell Peace Plans

Statement Replies To Russian's Remarks Printed On Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The incoming Eisenhower administration today challenged Russia's Premier Stalin to put forth "concrete proposals" on promoting peace and promised they would be "seriously and sympathetically received."

A statement taking that position was issued by John Foster Dulles, who will be the new administration's secretary of state, after Dulles had talked with President-elect Eisenhower.

The statement was the first reaction of the new administration to replies given by Stalin to four questions presented to him by the New York Times and published Thursday morning.

Stalin expressed willingness to meet with Eisenhower in response to one question and he also said Russia was interested in ending the Korean war.

Dulles made this statement: "I have read with interest the published account of Mr. Stalin's views. If these mean that Mr. Stalin has concrete proposals to make to the new administration after it takes office, he can rest assured that they will be seriously and sympathetically received."

"DIPLOMATIC or United Nations channels of communication are always available for such purposes and for exchanges of views designed to find ways to promote peace and international good will."

The normal diplomatic channels for contact between Washington and Moscow are the Soviet embassy here and the American embassy there. At the United Nations Russian and American delegations have a constant opportunity of quick and informal contact.

There was a bit of cautious optimism on Capitol Hill, but in administration circles in downtown Washington the feeling seemed to be that Stalin had offered little if anything new in a reply to four questions submitted to him by the New York Times.

Faith In UN Said Needed By U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans should not let allegations that subversives have infiltrated the U. S. staff at the United Nations undermine their faith in the world organization, Sen. O'Connor (D-Md.) says.

O'Connor is a member of the Senate internal security subcommittee, whose hearings have been a factor in the discharge of 29 U. S. nationals from the UN staff. The Americans were fired on the ground that they may be disloyal to the U. S. government, O'Connor said.

"Even such an unsavory condition as has been disclosed should not be permitted to tear down or endanger the structure of international co-operation which has been so laboriously erected."

Average Man Wants High Salary And Absolutely No Responsibility

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What mother ever raised her boy to be a vice president?

Probably none. Mothers want their sons to be doctors or lawyers or dentists or engineers. But they are missing a bet.

Why shouldn't a wise mother today aim her lad from birth toward one of the safest and most profitable careers in America, that of being a vice president? There are thousands upon thousands of vice presidents in this country, yet not one started life with that idea in mind. They all get there by accident.

But why shouldn't a smart young fellow set out deliberately to make himself a vice president? Why shouldn't business colleges have a course entitled, "How to become a vice president and stop right there?"

There is a popular belief that every man would like to have a high-paying post with a lot of responsibility. That isn't so. What the average man really craves is a high-paying post with absolutely no responsibility. And for that you can't beat the job of vice president.

Look at what it offers:

1. A swivel chair in a warm office out of the wind and the rain.

2. A secretary to answer the phone calls from your wife. And who else would phone a vice president?

3. Prestige. Everybody thinks you're important but nobody knows why.

4. Security. Nobody ever fires a vice president, because he never does anything wrong. Since nobody really knows what his duties are, he wisely decides the best way to keep from doing something wrong is to do nothing.

Some folks believe vice president is frustrated, neurotic executives consumed by gnawing ambition and who spend their days off lying on a psychiatrist's couch asking:

"Why can't I be a president instead of just another vice president?"

Nothing could be further from fact. Most vice presidents are contented, cheerful men whose sleep is haunted by only one terror:

"What if they ever made me president of the firm? What would I do?"

They know they have a happy life, and they don't want anybody to mess it up by giving them more responsibility. Who lives longer anyway—presidents or vice presidents?

If I were a young fellow starting on a fresh career I'd go to work for a big firm and tell them right off, "my goal is to be a vice president." The chances are the president would be so surprised at such a strange ambition he'd make you a vice president right off—just out of curiosity.

Of course, the perfect title to aim at is "vice president - in charge of seeing what - all - the other vice-presidents are doing." That is living at the peak.

6 State Universities Hike 1953 Appropriation Requests

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio's six state-supported universities today filed budget requests asking legislative appropriations totaling nearly $65 million dollars for the fiscal biennium beginning July 1, 1953.

The requests were filed with finance director Herbert D. Deffenbacher. The aggregate requests, $65,422,519, represent an increase of $14,168,355 over the legislative appropriations for the current biennium, or about 26.2 per cent.

W. P. Roubesh, vice president and finance officer of Miami University and secretary of the inter-university council which supervises the draft of the budgets for all the six universities, announced these total requests:

Wise Men Seek Jesus

THEY WORSHIPED THE BABE AND BROUGHT GIFTS

Scripture—Matthew 2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE BIRTH of what other child has made such a stir in the world as that of the infant Jesus? There is rejoicing in many countries when a son and heir is born to the ruler of the country. In countries where kings and queens still reign, their birthdays are legal holidays to their people and in their colonies.

Nowhere in history, however, is any birthday so generally celebrated all over the world, and has been for centuries, as is Christmas. New hope for a peaceful and co-operative world always floods the mind when we read the words uttered by the angels, as related in St. Luke's gospel, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

St. Luke gives us the fuller account of His birth, as it is he who tells of the circumstances concerning the birth of John the Baptist and the annunciation to Mary. He tells of the shepherds where Jesus, Mary, and Joseph were, and stood over it.

When they saw the young Child with Mary they fell down and worshiped Him, and "when they had opened their treasures they presented Him gifts, gold, and frankincense and myrrh."

Frankincense, the choicest of all odors, was thought to come from Arabia, but is now thought to come from India. It is a gum exuding from a plant, and was the highest prized and costliest of all of the scents of antiquity.

Myrrh oozed from an acacia-like plant found in Arabia. It was used dry as a gum, or, liquid, as an ointment, and was used in embalming.

Warned in a dream that they should not return to Jerusalem, the wise men went home by another route.

An angel also appeared to Joseph in a dream and told him to take the Child and His Mother and flee into Egypt "and be there until I bring thee word; for and their visit to the Babe. St. Matthew begins his second chapter with the words.

"Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is He that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star in the east, and are come to worship Him."

Now Herod was an interloper, according to history, and fearful of losing his throne which he held under Rome. So, naturally, when he heard what these wealthy and influential men were asking he was pretty upset, and all Jerusalem with him.

Herod sent for all the chief priests and scribes of the people and asked them where the Christ should be born, and they answered readily, "In Bethlehem," according to the ancient prophecy, "And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda, for out of thee shall come a governor, that shall rule My people Israel."

This report was not likely to comfort Herod, so he sent for the wise men, and meeting them secretly he said, "Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found Him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship Him also."

The wise men went their way, and the star led them to the place

Herod will seek the young Child to destroy Him."

So Joseph did as the angel said, and the three departed into Egypt. They remained there until the death of Herod, "that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Out of Egypt have I called My Son."

When Herod found he had been tricked by the wise men, he was furious, and he ordered all young children of two years of age and younger in Bethlehem to be slain. Can you imagine a more horrible thing to do? He was a wicked, wicked man.

When Herod died the angel of the Lord again appeared to Joseph and told him to take his wife and their Babe back to Israel. When they arrived Joseph found that Herod's son, Archelaus, reigned in Juda, so he was afraid to go back. Again warned in a dream, Joseph turned aside into the parts of Galilee.

"And he came and dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, He shall be called a Nazarene."

When this lesson reaches you, Christmas day will have passed, but the Christmas spirit will still be with us, and we will be glad to talk again about the pilgrims who saw the Babe in His manger birthplace and rejoice over the gifts they gave Him in devout worship.

'52 Baby Crop May Set Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1952 baby crop may set a U. S. record.

The U. S. Public Health Service, in a report issued Tuesday, estimated last year's babies at 3,833,000 and said indications are that the 1952 crop will be one to two per cent greater.

Based on figures for the first 10 months of this year, the health service said the birth rate should be about 25 live births for each 1,000 population, about the same as last year.

The only time in 25 years that the birth rate has gone above that was in 1947, when it was 26.6 for each 1,000 population.

IN TRADITION
AMONG THE TRAGIC legends of the sea, none is more fraught with emotion, even after a lapse of four decades, than the sinking of the steamship Titanic. Legend is the wrong word, for it is a brutal fact that 1,517 persons lost their lives in that disaster.

When a Senate investigation was conducted at New York and Washington, right after the survivors had landed, the principal witness was Charles Herbert Lightoller, then 38, second officer of the Titanic and the sole officer to be saved. He went down with the ship, managed to reach a half-submerged life raft and was taken aboard the rescue ship, Carpathia.

Before a confused, vengeful group of Senators, Lightoller told what he had experienced in the manliest, most objective fashion, eliciting the approval both of his White Star Line superiors and the most critical members of Congress.

Now, at 78, he is dead at his home in England. He was too old for active service in World War II, but he ran his 60-foot motor boat to Dunkerque and brought back 130 men on one trip. Two of his three sons died in the war.

The Titanic disaster resulted in strict provision for sufficient lifeboats, rafts and preservers for passenger ships, as well as the establishment of an international ice patrol under U. S. auspices.

But the sea is never safe and utmost vigilance remains a norm of operation. Commander Lightoller's conduct in the Titanic disaster and his subsequent career were in the highest tradition of the merchant service.

WALLY STILL OUT
JUST HOW THE DUCHESS of Windsor would rate with the new royal family in England has been a matter of considerable speculation. There was speculation on this side of the ocean whether, after being banished all these years, American-born Wally, for whom King Edward VIII gave up his throne, would finally be forgiven and permitted to join the family circle.

But this is not to be. The Duke has announced that he and Wally will not be among those present at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth next Summer. Reason for their absence is a bit technical. It would not be in accordance with constitutional usage, he explains, for a former sovereign to attend such a function.

That lets Wally out, again, and perhaps finally. She doesn't seem to mind, however, and she and the Duke are having a rather gay time of it, commuting between Paris and New York.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—Chief Justice Fred Vinson of the Supreme Court has achieved the ambition for which every presiding officer of this body has yearned but rarely attained.

Temporarily, at least, he has squelched personal and judicial bickering on the top tribunal of justice, in striking contrast to downtown, Trumanesque squabbling.

Dissenters are no more popular on the Supreme Court than they are in any other human area—a family, a corporation, a political party or the United Nations.

Even the good-natured William Howard Taft, as the C. J., used to groan when the conclusions of his great opinions each Monday wound up with the constant repetition: "Justices Holmes and Brandeis dissent."

UNANIMITY—His successor, Charles Evans Hughes, was a stickler for unanimity. He frequently delayed announcement of decisions for weeks while he sought vainly to rally or round up a solid majority.

Like Taft, he did not think that rulings involving great affairs, domestic and foreign, should be handed down amidst a clamorous disagreement more fitting for a ladies' aid society than the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Hughes worshipped what he used to call "judicial decorum."

SQUABBLING—Five-to-four and even 6-3 splits hurt his conscience. Although he admired such colleagues as Brandeis, Holmes and Cardozo, the most frequent dissenters, he grieved at their "cussedness."

But even he was not able to carry his judicial precincts with solid majorities until, as a counter-offensive to FDR's court-packing proposal, he told them one memorable day that "if we don't hang together, we'll hang separately."

For more than a decade now, the Roosevelt-Truman court, composed of reformers, professors, individualists, politicians and ideologists, and with a minimum of previous experience on the bench has been squabbling personally and judicially. There have been times when the honorables, or a few of them, did not speak to each other.

MAJORITIES—Where those eminent jurists failed, Chief Justice Vinson, an ex-baseball player, a veteran member of the House, a shrewd and likable politician, a man Friday for two Presidents during World War II, and a man of limited experience on the bench before his appointment to his present post by Truman, has succeeded, for the moment at least. Even a Supreme Court is unpredictable.

During the fall session, he has had six whopping majorities in cases of considerable importance whereas the bothersome 5-4 divisions have shown up on relatively minor matters. The notable exception was the close vote on the constitutionality of Truman's seizure of the steel plants, when Vinson amazed his friends by upholding the White House viewpoint.

NO SOLID BLOC—On almost every piece of litigation which helped to build an important body of precedents, the votes have been 8-0, 8-1, and 7-2. Equally significant, there is no solid bloc of dissenters. On several occasions, Justice Douglas, the foot-loose liberal, has teamed with Justice Frankfurter, the aging conservative, in disagreement.

Eight judges, for instance, struck down the list compiled by the Department of Justice as a basis for deciding whether public

If I wrote what I am going to quote from an article by A. Sobolev, which appeared in the "Bolshevik," the leading publication in Soviet Russia, you might say it is the same old stuff, the same old red-baiting. You might even discount it and say that you had known it all the time. Some might even speak of harping on the same subject, which is necessary because with the casualties mounting in Korea, what can be more important?

But the article from which I take this quotation has been reprinted in many languages since it first appeared in October, 1951. It explains what happened in many countries, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania, China; it explains what the Russians hope will happen in other countries now not part of their empire. It is what they are trying to do to us with their so-called peace campaign which is designed to weaken our will to resist them. This article explains the five steps by which Soviet Russia conquers a country:

"First, the Soviet Army was the direct liberator of these countries from the Fascist enslavement.

"Secondly, the Soviet Union brought to nought the designs for Anglo-American intervention with regard to the countries of Central and Southeastern Europe, and thus saved them from a new imperialist—Anglo-American—oppression.

"Thirdly, the Soviet Army smashed the allies of Hitlerite Germany, the armed forces of Rumanian, Hungarian and Bulgarian Fascist reaction, and this naturally facilitated the victory of People's Democracy in these countries. The presence of Soviet troops prevented the reactionary forces from launching civil war.

"Fourthly, the Soviet Union extended immense moral and political support to the countries of People's Democracy, and helped them to strengthen their international position. Of great importance was the economic aid. The Soviet government helped these countries with equipment and raw materials for industry and food supplies for the population, etc.

"Finally, the Soviet Union has assisted and is assisting the toilers of these countries with its rich experience in social reforms."

Note: The United States did not liberate any of these countries from Hitler, according to A. Sobolev. We did nothing. We supplied nothing. Actually, we are painted as enemies, imperialists, oppressors. Not a word is said of our great contribution to the victory of World War II. Not a word is said of UNRRA, of giving these governments food and clothes and blankets, for which we paid the largest share. Not one word is said even of Soviet Russia being an ally of the United States and getting $11 billion of Lend-Lease, never repaid and never accounted for. Not one word is said of that, although but for it, Hitler might have succeeded in his effort to hold these countries.

DIET AND HEALTH
Vitamins Tend to Slow Down Aging Process of the Brain

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE have known for some years that the body requires a proper supply of vitamins. A diet that is deficient in these vital substances brings severe as well as painful diseases.

It now appears that a shortage of the vitamin niacin can also bring on mental changes seen in senility. People getting toward their sixties might even benefit from taking this vitamin regularly to keep clear minds in old age.

Aging Process
We all know that many men and women past 60 begin to have lapses in memory, confusion about recent events, and faulty judgment. These are all due to an aging process of the brain, known as senility. It is believed that a lack of niacin, one of the vitamin B group, sets the stage for many cases of senility.

Usually a niacin deficiency develops in an older person because of improper diet. It may also be caused by failure of the intestines to absorb the vitamin properly.

Needs More Niacin
An older person usually needs a greater amount of niacin than a young adult. When this amount drops too low, it may subject these older persons to mental changes. Then, as a result of their failure in thinking, they take less food, and thus the condition tends to grow worse.

When large doses of niacin are given to these people, mental improvement may be seen within three months. If this improvement occurs, small doses are then given to keep the person in proper mental health.

Helps Those Under 65
Usually the degree of improvement depends on the patient's age. Vitamin treatments help over half the patients with senile changes up to 65 years of age. However, only ten per cent of the older patients are benefited.

It is also good to begin the treatments as soon as mental lapses are noticed. The sooner after the person shows the beginning of symptoms, the better the chance of success.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

EMILY did not attempt any answer to David's thunderbolt declaration that he had fallen in love with Priscilla. She sat staring at David, in dumb and horrible belief, and she did not resist when he leaned forward and took her hand. She was vaguely aware that the gesture was meant to be kind, almost compassionate, but it failed in its purpose. It seemed to have no meaning whatsoever. An hour earlier, she would have said that the slightest touch from David's fingers would kindle her to ardor. Now she did not feel anything at all. She was completely numb, as she had been in that strange period after Roger had died.

"All this is so hard to say that I know I'll do it very badly," David went on. "But I've got to begin by asking you to believe that I never lied to you. When I told you I loved you, it was true—so overwhelmingly true that I felt I had to tell you, even though you were married to someone else. You do believe me, don't you, Emily?"

She still could not speak, she still could not make any immediate sign. But after a moment or two, though her lips were still pressed tightly together, she inclined her head, and he took it for a sign of assent.

"I went overseas, still loving you. I still loved you when Roger died. I thought I ought to wait a year at least, before I told you so again. By then, we were preparing for the invasion. Preparing very intensively. And I thought I'd wait a little longer. Until my declaration of love could be coupled with a sort of peace of victory. I told you I'd say all this very badly. I know I am. But you do understand, don't you?"

"Yes," Emily said.

"After that there wasn't any time to write letters. Not the kind I wanted to write, not the kind that would have been worthy of you. But I still meant to do it. I still loved you. I don't know why I kept saying I still loved you as if it were in the past. I love you now. As much as I ever did, in one way. But not the way I did before. Ever though I'd never asked you, in so many words, to marry me, that was because of a combination and a succession of circumstances. I'd wanted to marry you, for a long time, and it was implicit in what I'd said to you. It wasn't your fault, either, that I didn't want to any longer. You hadn't done anything to change my feelings. It was just one of those things that happens once in a while, especially in wartime. When two people have been through a war together—well, somehow there's a bond between them that's different from other bonds. It's stronger. It has more meaning, it's bound to be more lasting. What happened as far as you and I are concerned won't happen again. From now on, if you release me, Priscilla'll be the only woman in my life."

Emily was back in her own house within the time limit she had set for herself; but though she had been correct in her expectation that no major repairs would be required, countless small renovations seemed desirable and she and Deirdre were both busy from morning till night. Brian burst in upon her, unceremoniously, one morning while she was dusting books.

"I had a wedding invitation this morning that came like a bolt from the blue: 'Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Endicott Forbes request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Priscilla Anne, to Major David Salomont.' What's the meaning of this, Emily?"

"Well, it sounds to me as if David and Priscilla were about to be married. Doesn't it sound that way to you?"

"Listen, I'm not in the mood for pointless jokes. Did you know David and Priscilla were going to be married?"

"Yes."

"How long have you known it?"

"About a fortnight."

Brian appeared to do some quick calculating. "I'd be a good deal surprised to find it was quite as long as that. I'd bet anything you didn't know it that day you lured me up to your grandmother's attic and induced me to go to sleep on your grandmother's rum."

"Well, I said about a fortnight. I didn't count the days off on my fingers."

"But you didn't know it, that day we were in the attic, did you?"

"No, I didn't. Have you been back to Cutter Mills yet, Briny? Do they know you're already separated from the Navy?"

"I haven't been back there and they don't know it yet. I've got other things to do and other things on my mind. When you told me you wouldn't marry me because you were in love with someone else, you were talking about David Salomont. Yes or no?"

"Briny, I've told you before that you ask too many questions and that some of them are pretty presumptuous. This last one is a very good example of what I mean. I don't want to be inquisitorial, but I'm pretty busy right now and I know they're still terribly short-handed at Cutter Mills. I think it would be a wonderful idea if you'd give me a chance to dust these books while you go down to the office and say you're ready to start work again."

"That's what you think. Do you want to know what I think? I think David Salomont is a—"

Browns, Lions Tapering Off For Championship Grid Tilt

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland's Browns let up on the heavy work today and concentrated more on mental preparation for their championship game Saturday against the Detroit Lions.

The amount of memory work Coach Paul Brown demands of his gridiron PHDs would startle a professor. Players stuff so much information into their heads and thick notebooks that the game itself comes as sort of a three-hour final examination.

Brown plans to put 17 veterans among the 22 men on the starting offensive and defensive lineups, men who know well that their every mistake is checked after the game by movies.

The other five starters Sunday may all be rookies, depending on how quickly injured Browns heal.

Derrell Brewster will go at offensive left end if Mac Speedie's twisted knee is still bad; Ray Renfro will run at offensive right half if Dub Jones' knee doesn't improve; and Bob Gain will start at defensive left tackle if John Kissel's sprained ankle isn't in shape.

THE OTHER first-year men have been playing all season, Bert Rechichar at safety and Joe Skibinski at offensive right guard.

Brown now says "we have a chance" if the Browns play at their "absolute peak." Bettors favored the Lions by 3 1/2 points.

The Lions wound up their heavy drills for the championship game with a morning workout today.

Coach Buddy Parker said defensive tackle Johnny Preklich, one of two players injured in last Sunday's playoff game with the Los Angeles Rams, would be ready to start against the Browns.

Offensive guard Dick Stanfel's still a questionable starter.

Parker also indicated his squad was taking the championship game in stride.

"I don't think the championship game is any different to the players than any other important league contest," he declared, "and when it comes to important games, brother we've had 'em. Actually we had to play 10 crucial games in a row this season after our two losses to the San Francisco 49ers."

The Dodgers, Redlegs and Braves each contributed two players to the list of individual defensive top men.

Third baseman Billy Cox with a .979 average and catcher Roy Campanella at .994 represented the National League champion Dodgers.

First Sacker Ted Kuszewski, .993 and second baseman Grady Hatton, .990 were the Cincinnati players to set the pace at their position and shortstop Johnny Logan, .972 and outfielder Sid Gordon, .996 were Brave standouts.

Twenty pitchers fielded 1,000 but New York's Jim Hearn, who handled the most chances, 71, was listed as the leader.

Brooklyn, by edging out Cincinnati for the club laurels, 9822 to .9817, tied the National League record established by St. Louis. The Cardinals also fielded .982 in 1945. The Dodgers only made 106 errors to eclipse another Cardinal record set in 1944.

The New York Giants executed the most double plays, 175.

Atlanta

High Hysteria In College Grid Circles Begins

North-South All-Stars Battle To Tie; Pair Of Big Games Nearing

NEW YORK (AP)—College football's holiday week of high hysteria is underway and seldom has it opened on a more hysterical note.

In a wild conflict that saw the tide reversed twice in the final 58 seconds, all-star teams from the North and South fought to a 21-21 tie in the annual Shrine game in Miami Thursday night.

With 58 seconds to go, the North shot ahead, 21-14, on a five-yard pass from Purdue's Dale Samuels to an old battery mate, Bernard Flowers.

Just 20 seconds were left when Jack Scarbath, Maryland's All-America T-wizard, fired a pass to halfback Jack Hook of Missouri good for 64 yards and the tying touchdown. Hook had to run the last 20.

This provided a fitting finish for an exciting battle which opened with a 95-yard touchdown run by Scarbath. He and All-America line-backer Donn Moomaw shared the game's Most Valuable Player Award. A record crowd of 42,866 watched it.

THE GAME SET a rugged standard for the holiday program which gains momentum Saturday with two of the older all-star attractions, the East-West charity game in San Francisco and the Blue-Gray battle in Montgomery, Ala., plus the Shrine Bowl game in Galveston, Tex.

These are followed by eight bowl games next Thursday, Jan. 1, and the senior bowl tilt in Mobile, Ala., Jan. 3.

In Galveston, undefeated Northeast Oklahoma State defends a nine-game season's streak against Sam Houston State, which has won five games and lost four. The battle will start at 4:15 p. m., EST, before an anticipated turnout of 9,000.

A crowd of 62,000 is expected to pay more than a quarter of a million dollars to witness the Shrine charity battle in San Francisco, which rivals the Rose Bowl in tradition. The game, with kickoff at 5 p. m., EST, will be broadcast and televised.

The Blue-Gray skirmish, pitting picked squads from above and below the Mason-Dixon line, probably will be played before a crowd of 22,000 with a $60,000 gate. Mutual will broadcast at 2:30 p. m.

The Northern boys in this fracas were cheered by a weather forecast which predicted a hard freeze in Montgomery and nippy, Yankee weather. This would be calculated to disturb Dixie players.

The Blues are depending on a passing attack, with Detroit's Ted Marchbroda and Indiana's Lou d'Achille doing the throwing.

THE GRAYS are pinning their offensive hopes on William A. Mary's Ed Mioduszewski, Auburn's Dudley Spence and Texas A&M's Hal Ledyard.

In San Francisco, the Eastern team will be coached by Biggie Munn of Michigan State, who led his Spartans to the recognized national championship this season. Howie Odell of WASHINGTON — Joseph Stalin had nothing to lose by giving pleasant answers Christmas Day to questions about peace. By being pleasant, he made propaganda hay. If he had snarled, it would have been propaganda against him.

Actually, he committed himself to nothing when he said he was "favorable" to arrangements for a meeting between himself and President-elect Eisenhower and would "co-operate" in trying for peace in Korea. He has loopholes or doing nothing, if he intends doing nothing.

The New York Times on Dec. 18 submitted to the Russian Embassy several questions to be answered to Stalin. The timing of the answers may have been accidental but, from the viewpoint of Russian propagandists, was excellent. The answers were delivered to the Times late Christmas Eve night.

Because the Times is a morning paper, the Stalin story had to appear in the Christmas morning editions. And, with news usually scarce Christmas Day, a Stalin statement was bound to get maximum attention. It did.

And, since Christmas is the one day when the Western world sings most longingly of peace on earth, Stalin may have felt it was the day most appropriate for representing himself as big-hearted Joe, although it is well known he is no believer in Santa Claus.

One of the Times' questions said: "Would you welcome diplomatic conversations with representatives of the new Eisenhower administration looking toward the possibility of a meeting between yourself and Gen. Eisenhower on easing world tensions?"

Stalin answered: "I regard this suggestion favorably."

Stalin was being consistent with the party line. The Communists claim to be the genuine peace-lovers, even when blocking or destroying it, as they did with the invasion of Korea. Further, if Stalin was talking strictly for propaganda and doesn't want to meet

Eisenhower, the wording of the question and the answer are general enough to give Stalin a big, wide out.

As the question indicated—and this was what Stalin said yes to—before he and Eisenhower ever got together diplomats on both sides would have to meet to decide what the two men should discuss when they met. But the Russians could easily prevent such a meeting, on Stalin's instructions, by squabbling with the Western diplomats until the whole business fell apart in disagreement.

Another times' question said: "Would you co-operate in any new diplomatic approach designed to bring about an end to the Korean War?"

How could Stalin say no? He wouldn't look good. He said: "I agree to co-operate because the USSR is interested in ending the war in Korea." And maybe at last Russia really wants the war ended. But it hasn't demonstrated any such inclination.

One of the troubles, or gimmicks, in Stalin's answer about co-operation is that what he calls co-operation may look to the West like downright wrecking tactics.

In view of the Russian record it seems unlikely Stalin intends his answers to have real meaning, although he could make them have it, if he wanted to.

Some Farmers May Use 13 Tax Forms

Some say "13" is unlucky—but some farmers will have to use 13 income tax report forms this season.

It is possible some farmers will have to obtain four sets of forms to report income to the bureau of internal revenue.

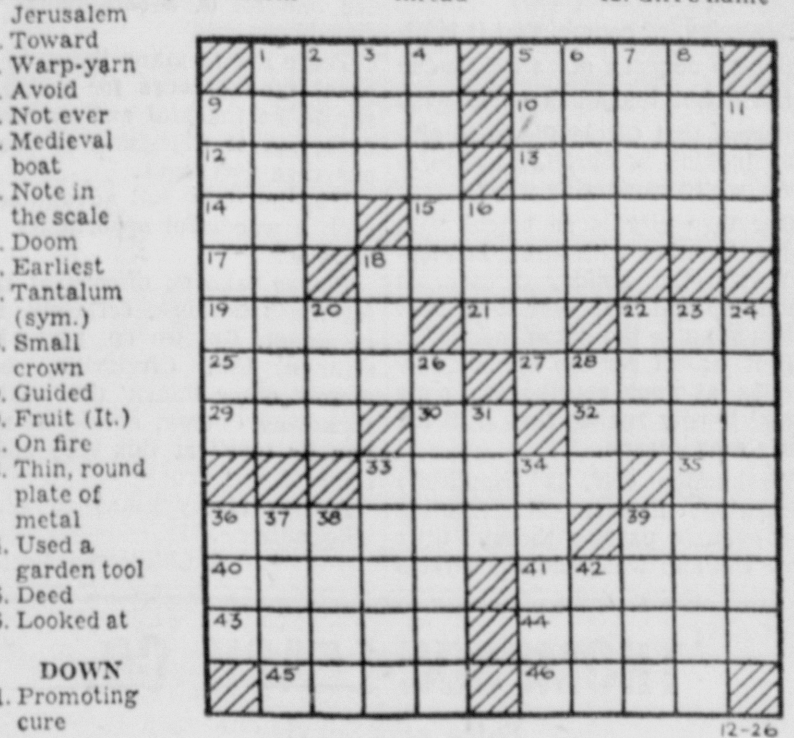

The four sets total 13 forms. Those farmers who have to use all 13 forms probably will be in the minority, however.

All farmers will need two copies each of forms 1040 and 1040 F—four forms. For each employee who received $600 or more during the year, farmers will need two copies of form 1099 and three copies of form 1099—five forms for each employee.

THOSE FARMERS who want to file estimates of tax will need two

You may think that this type of blatant, lying propaganda falls on deaf ears. It does not. The plain people of every country hear nothing but this. What they hear of the broadcasts over the Voice of America and Radio Free Europe, we do not know. We can only hope that some of their work goes through to them.

But the great masses of people get this kind of Russian propaganda in large doses, on the radio, on loudspeakers, in the movies. The Russians push these ideas relentlessly and ceaselessly. They drive these ideas into the minds of people by constant repetition until nothing else is believed.

They spread the Big Lie.

The object of all these efforts is to make people hate America, to hate our country with a deep fear of us, until they will serve their Russian masters in any manner desired of them. While in such countries as ours they give the impression that they favor peace, actually they are steaming up their peoples to be ready for war.

This is never a popular story to write, and certainly not one for this time of the year. But the situation in Europe, in Africa, in Asia is such that one dares not withhold an iota of our peril.

We're, as a nation, moving into one of those critical situations which requires great wisdom and even greater courage. That must be in the hearts of the people if those who have been chosen to govern for us are to succeed.

When faced by the truth, Americans have thus far in their history never flinched.

Good Soil Management Pays Off For 'Wheat King'

Rotation Plan With Legumes Is Secret

High Crop Yields And Top Quality Are Dividends

Good soil management paid off for Spencer Dunham, 40, of Caro, Mich., crowned "Wheat King" during the hay and grain show of the International Livestock Exposition. Dunham keeps his soil in prime crop producing condition by growing deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation and adding all the plant nutrients his crops need for top yields.

The new wheat champion won his crown with Yorkwin, a soft winter variety. This was the second year running a Michigan wheat grower has been named "Wheat King."

Last year's winner was Harold Metcalf, of neighboring Fairgrove, in Tuscola county. He, too, exhibited Yorkwin.

DUNHAM'S winning wheat sample weighed 59.6 pounds per bushel and yielded 40 bushels to the acre. He farms 180 acres, of which 100 is rented. He bought the present farm about four years ago. He reports the land was in good shape when he took over. Since then he has built it up further and maintained its fertility by good management methods.

Although he carries a few feeder cattle, generally there are no livestock to provide manure so Dunham relies on plowed-under legumes and crop residues to keep up the soil's organic matter supply.

In the rotation, there is an alfalfa crop every third year. The rotation may include beans or peas; oats, barley or corn; wheat and a legume seedling.

Dunham fertilizes all the crops with a nitrogen, phosphate and potash fertilizer. He usually adds about 250 pounds per acre of 3-12-12 or 4-16-16.

On the wheat seeding he puts part of the fertilizer on in the fall and the rest in the spring. With corn, he side-dresses 100 pounds per acre of a nitrogen fertilizer in addition to the plant food added in the row at planting time.

"Getting high crop yields with good quality is a dollars-and-cents necessity if you want to make any money farming these days," Dunham said.

"PRODUCTION costs have zoomed to such a height that you have to grow big crops to get past the break-even point. Using plenty of fertilizer can help you get the extra bushels per acre that cut down your production costs and boost your profits."

Dunham is active in farm organization work and is an assistant 4-H Club leader. His five children—Janet, 13, Joan, 11, Joyce, 9, Jack, 8 and Robert, 7, all are interested in farming.

The two older girls carry an extensive 4-H project schedule. Janet is feeding a Guernsey calf and she and Joyce are partners in a Hereford steer feeding project.

Flagpole Mark Challenge Seen

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—William L. (Happy) Howard's flagpole sitting record of 196 days may be challenged in some quarters.

That is because he did the sitting in two states. He set out to break the record June 1 across the Columbia River in Washougal, Wash. But after several months interest in the project lagged there and Howard, atop a section of the pole, was moved by truck to a Portland amusement park. He climbed down on Christmas Day announcing that he had set a record. The previous record was held by Emma Leach of Eugene, Ore., who stayed on top a pole above a San Francisco used car lot for 152 days.

Normal Life Is Man's Best Christmas Gift

SEATTLE (AP)—A 20-year-old man who had been doomed to die within five years because of a malformed heart cherished today the greatest Christmas gift of all—that of a normal life.

An unnamed Seattle surgeon and the sisters of charity of Providence were the donors.

A brother, a year younger, will undergo the same corrective surgery in the near future, through the generosity of the surgeon and the sisters.

It was just six weeks ago when Frank Gunderson of Thompson Falls, Mont., walked into the surgeon's office. He had been sent by his hometown doctors, who said that without an operation young Gunderson had only four or five more years to live.

In the youth's pocket was his life savings of $140. Gently, the surgeon explained that repairing a heart artery which failed to close normally at birth was costly—far more than $140.

But the surgeon told the Providence sisters of the case, and they agreed to donate the needed care at Providence Hospital here. The surgeon said there would be no charge for the operation.

On Dec. 13, Frank's abnormal artery was cut and the two ends were sewn shut in a delicate piece of surgery. The malformation is known technically as patent ductus arteriosus.

1953 Farm Production Goals Stressing Livestock Feeds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has set 1953 farm production goals with an eye towards an American dinner plate laden with meat and other livestock/product foods.

He suggested further shifts in production from "cash" crops which need export markets to production of corn, grain sorghum, oats, hay and grass to support an expanding livestock, dairy and poultry industry for American appetites.

Brannan told farmers that foreign buyers are expected to take less cotton, wheat, and possibly tobacco and rice in the years to come. Consequently, continued high level production of these products, he said, could do nothing but bring or new farm surpluses, depressed prices, and production controls later.

It would be better, the secretary said, to produce more livestock feed. Extra production above the coming year's livestock feed needs is desired so that reserves might be built to protect the nation against possible crop failures and international emergencies.

Brannan said that if the goals he set are attained, total agricultural production next year would equal if not exceed this year's record.

Aside from the advisability of building larger livestock feed reserves, there are other reasons, he said, why farmers should produce another big volume next year.

In the first place, Brannan said, it would be foolhardy to cut back during the current period of international uncertainty. Second, he said, the domestic demand for farm products is expected to remain high. Lastly, he said, the population is increasing and this in itself increases needs.

The goals are merely advisory. The secretary called for smaller crops of such oilseeds as soybeans and flaxseed, explaining that reserves of these are larger.

He said the present production pattern indicates more beef and less pork next year, about the same amount of milk and more eggs. As cattle numbers continue to increase, he added there will be need for less pork, and that this situation may exist for several years.

The 1953 planting goals for corn compared with this year's planted acreage include:

Ohio 3,600,000 and 3,581,000.

The 1953 planting goals for soybeans compared with this year's planting acreage include:

Ohio 915,000 and 940,000 acres.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Non de plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

Realizing, of course, that it is little or no concern of us Chillicothe natives, but inasmuch as it is so apparent that Circleville is so pitifully lacking in Christmas decorations, we're wondering why?

Our own city is so bright with lights, together with music in keeping with the holiday season, it seems so odd that your town isn't celebrating in the same manner.

If it wasn't for the special decoration at your courthouse, one would hardly realize that it IS the Christmas season.

Washington C.H. is beautifully decorated; likewise Mt. Sterling and even in passing through little New Holland we found the streets decorated.

What is the matter with Circleville's civic organizations? Remembering some of the past years, when your main square was strung with lights (and by the way, it was one of the prettiest sights we had seen) it seems so strange that the Yuletide spirit is only being manifested in Roundtown by the one bit of decoration at the courthouse.

There are so many things in this great land of ours for which we should be thankful and expressing ourselves at Christmas is one of our rare privileges.

Why not take full advantage of such a wonderful opportunity and show it?

Please take no offense at these few lines because, certainly, none is meant. But we do think it strange that Circleville, being among other things the seat of Pickaway County, should be more "on its toes" at this very special time of the year!

A very Merry Xmas to Circleville citizens.
